CARAFE

Where Craft meets Heart

Rooted in tradition,
shaped by hand.

Each carafe is handcrafted in Beit Chabeb and Douma
by artisans carrying a heritage passed down through generations.

A piece of warmth,
wherever you are

OLIVE OIL

Where Nature Meets Meaning

Our olive oils are sourced from families in Lebanon,
where olive trees are cared for generation after generation

Each drop brings a sense of belonging into your everyday
EVERY OPTION OLIVE OIL PRODUCT: 250 ml / 1L / 3L

MALVINA:

- Essential Information:

In South Lebanon, Deir Mimas unfolds among rolling hills lined with olive trees, some of which have stood for centuries. Named after Saint Mamas, a third-century shepherd said to have been protected by a lion, the village carries a quiet sense of history and resilience.

Here, olive growing is more than a tradition; it is a rhythm of life, shaped by the land and passed down from one generation to the next.

This olive oil comes from the Hasbani family, originally from Deir Mimas, where olive growing has been part of daily life for generations. Harvested at the end of September and beginning of October, it offers a fresh, balanced profile and is best used as a finishing touch, bringing out the natural flavors of each dish.

Village: Deir Mimas

Altitude: 400-500

Crop date: End of september

Acidity: <0,5

Variety: Baladi

Best use for: Kitchen & Table Olive Oil (CAT 2)

- Kitchen & Table Olive Oil

A smooth and well-balanced olive oil designed to move seamlessly from the kitchen to the table. Perfect for cooking, roasting, grilling, dressing, and finishing your favorite dishes.

- More to know about Malvina:

Named after my paternal grandfather's mother, Malvina is the kind of teta you feel like you've always known. She was always there in her own way, with her curlers in place and her long, flowing house dresses, moving quietly through the house, never far from the kitchen. Always the good old Lebanese dish ready: chich barak, koussa, kebbe, name it, and it was done. Her laughter had a way of taking over the moment, warm, generous, impossible to resist, the kind that made everyone else laugh too; her whole body was shaking by it. Being around her felt easy. You didn't have to ask; you were already taken care of.

She never missed her daily Mass, a small ritual that shaped her days. She was one of those rare people loved by everyone, even her daughter-in-law. Like a true miracle was happening. Always doing something, often with her crochet in hand, always thinking of others. Filling the room with her good energy. The kind of presence that feels like home, gentle, familiar, and deeply comforting. She was particularly good at piano and was always embroidering something for the house. She is the kind of teta that was active. She is from Achrafieh

EM RAMIZ:

- Essential Informations

Overlooking the ancient Phoenician city of Sidon, Aabra enjoys a privileged setting between the Mediterranean Sea and the rolling hills of South Lebanon. For generations, its fertile lands have been shaped by sunshine, sea breezes, and a deep connection to the region's agricultural heritage.

This olive oil comes from the Mushantaf family, who have carefully cultivated olive trees for two generations. Early-harvested to capture the olives at their peak, it reveals a vibrant and distinctive character. Crafted as a finishing olive oil, it is best enjoyed raw, where its richness and complexity can be fully appreciated.

Village: Aabra (Chouf)

Altitude: 150 m

Crop date: September 2025

Acidity:

Variety: Frontoio

Best Use for: Table & Finishing Olive Oil

- Table & Finishing Olive Oil

Naturally rich in polyphenols, this olive oil is designed to shine at the table, bringing depth, freshness, and Mediterranean character to every dish

- More to know about Em Ramiz:

Em Ramiz was my paternal grandmother's mother. Her first name was Alice.

Everything she made was homemade: jam, labneh, kishk, even the green kishk. She cooked everything from scratch. Whether sweet or savory, her food was unforgettable, and her maamoul was truly worth the detour. She was deeply devoted to her family in a way that made her love and patience tangible. She was not only kind, but incredibly warm. You could feel her love in everything she did, especially in her cooking. Her jam was famous among family and friends, and people would come from different regions just to ask for it.

Em Ramiz was the mother of six children and chose to dedicate her life to her family. She was the kind of person who gave endlessly and never expected anything in return. Her generosity came naturally, as did her gentleness. One of her simple pleasures was going to the movies when a film was projected in the village once a week. I like to imagine her there, enjoying those small moments of joy. She was from Machghara, and through the stories passed down from generation to generation, her warmth, generosity, and love continue to live on.

NAJIBE:

- Essential Information

Set high in the mountains of North Lebanon, Douma is a village where landscape and heritage are deeply intertwined. Its olive terraces reflect generations of tradition shaped by altitude, climate, and time.

This olive oil is produced by the Chalhoub family, who have cultivated their groves for three generations. Harvested in November, it offers a softer, more rounded profile, with gentle aromas and a smooth finish. It is perfect for everyday use, from drizzling over warm dishes to bringing balance and depth to your cooking.

Village: Douma

Altitude: 700 m

Crop date: November 2025

Acidity:

Variety: Syrian

Best Use for: Kitchen Essential Olive Oil

- Kitchen Essential Olive Oil

A smooth and balanced olive oil designed for cooking, roasting, grilling, and sautéing, enhancing dishes with rich Mediterranean character.

- More to know about Najibe

Named after my maternal grandmother's sister, Najibe is the kind of teta everyone seems to have known. Always caring for others, she is happiest in the kitchen, cooking for those she loves. Call her to say you are coming and there will always be something warm waiting, along with plenty of family gossip.

Generous and funny, she never arrives empty handed and always insists you eat more, somehow never believing you when you say you can't. She has a strong character and absolutely no filter. Her comments can sometimes be awkward, embarrassing, or simply impossible to ignore. She often appears annoyed, irritated, or even bitter, but those who know her know it is mostly a façade. She is stubborn, quick to get angry, and that is precisely what makes her so funny. She makes the best tabbouleh in Lebanon, is always craving lemon ice cream, and takes her own photos on her very old phone because she refuses to have WhatsApp. Najibe does things her own way, and beneath all the grumbling is a woman who loves her family fiercely and notices everything, whether you asked for her opinion or not.

More about to know Georges:

Georges was my paternal grandfather. He was always described as someone who treated himself and his family with the utmost care and respect. A true gentleman in every sense of the word, he always had something kind to say and carried himself with elegance, grace, and delicacy. He devoted himself to his family, always making sure that everyone was doing well and taken care of. Through the stories I have heard, he remains a symbol of kindness, generosity, and quiet strength. He was from Ebel el Saqi, a village that will forever be part of his story and, in a way, mine too.

With this name, I chose to pay tribute to Georges A., the man who introduced me to debs el kharoub and made me fall in love with it.

FAYEZ:

- Essential Informations

More about to know Fayez:

Fayez was my maternal grandfather. His table was always surrounded by people, because he loved welcoming everyone with warmth and generosity. He was always smiling, always happy to have family and friends around him. Bringing people together was one of the things he loved most. We were treated like kings and queens. Every morning, breakfast was a feast, filled with endless choices and prepared with love. My Sundays will always remind me of the typical Lebanese barbecues at his house: music playing in the background, sunshine, delicious food, laughter, and people enjoying each other's company. It was THE gathering we couldn't and wouldn't miss. Every evening ended with a good card game, another moment of sharing that he enjoyed so much. Fayez was one of the most generous people I have ever known. If you were lucky enough to be his friend, you were truly lucky.

His house felt like a little paradise, completely self-sufficient and full of life. We would wake up and walk through the gardens, picking fresh fruit straight from the trees. He gave us the swimming pool that my cousins and I still dream about today, a place where so many of our happiest memories were made. Fayez was from Mehmarch, and through him, that place will always hold a special place in my heart.

About ZURUNY

TASTE THE LAND. SUPPORT THE CRAFT. CARRY THE STORY.

A LAND OF SUN, SOIL,
AND STORIES

Lebanon's south and Mediterranean hillsides are places where time slows down, where olive trees grow like memories, where craft is a language, and where every home carries the scent of oil warming on the table. Zuruny was born from this world: from a love of the land, its flavors, its beauty, and the people who keep its traditions alive. This is for anyone who loves good olive oil, handcrafted objects, and the poetry of the Mediterranean, whether you live in Lebanon or far from it.

CRAFT THAT HOLDS A SOUL

Behind every bottle and object, there is a person:

a farmer, a potter, a glassblower, a grower, a maker. People who shaped our land long before we were born, and who continue to hold it together today. We work with these artisans to turn heritage into living design, objects that feel warm, human, and rooted.

MORE THAN OLIVE OIL

Our oils come from different Lebanese regions:
each with its own character: bold, fruity, peppery, delicate.
Each one shaped by altitude, sun, wind, and ancestral knowledge.
We share the harvest year, the olive variety, the polyphenols,
and the best culinary use for each oil.
Because olive oil, like wine, has terroir and Lebanon has many.

FOR THOSE WHO STAYED AND THOSE WHO ROAM

Zuruny connects people who love Lebanon
those who live there, those who left, and those who simply fell in love with its landscapes, flavors, and soul. Your choice supports local families, preserves endangered crafts, and helps keep villages alive with dignity.

WHAT WE PROTECT

Without active support, Lebanon's ancestral crafts risk disappearing. Olive groves risk being abandoned. Entire regions risk losing the knowledge that shaped them. Zuruny exists to keep these traditions breathing beautifully and sustainably.

A FUTURE BUILT ON ROOTS AND CREATION

We envision a world where Lebanese craftsmanship is celebrated globally. Where olive oil is appreciated for its terroir.
Where artisans thrive. Where every table from Beirut to Paris, from London to São Paulo can hold a piece of Lebanon, offered with pride. Zuruny is heritage made tangible. A way to taste, touch, and carry the Mediterranean, wherever you are.

Because you deserve to feel home at home.
